

The bubble plot displays the relationship between Depth (m), Salinity (psu), and Temperature (°C) for two types of sites: Neon Sites (black diamonds) and Published Sites (green circles). The size of the bubbles represents the magnitude of the data points. The plot shows that Published Sites are generally found at higher salinities and temperatures, while Neon Sites are more distributed across the depth and salinity range.

- nymph

● 1000